

College of Naturopaths of Ontario

Retaking Entry-to-Practise Exams

A candidate who fails an examination on the first attempt can apply to retake it a second time. After a second failure, the candidate must complete remediation as directed by a panel of the Registration Committee before a third and final attempt. An exam candidate who fails on the third attempt is not eligible to continue in the examination process without first completing an additional program of study in naturopathic medicine.

To retake any of the College's entry-to-practise exams, candidates need to do the following.

- Submit a new copy of their valid photo identification.
- Ensure the residential address and contact information listed on their College profile is still correct or has been appropriately updated.
- Complete the Online Exam Registration process, including payment of the applicable fee(s).
- Submit any additional information (e.g., exam accommodation requests with supporting documentation) by the registration deadline for the exam they wish to sit.
